

ans Though people were oppressed with the British rule and their policies which were not always wrong. British also took steps to ameliorate women's position in India.
Dixers,

Ans → The English came to India in 1600 for trading. But ~~they~~ they built the empire. The policies which were made between 1757 to 1857 of colonial government affected the large sections of society. The most of the policies of colonial gov were oppressive ~~it~~ such as - heavy taxation, high tariff duties on Indian goods, subsidiary alliance, taxes on mosques and temples lands etc. ~~so people~~

Besides them, British also took some steps to ameliorate women's position in India -

- (1) Abolition of Sati ~~Pratha~~
- (2) Support to widow ~~remarriage~~
- (3) Support to women's ~~education~~ and also British took some steps for reform in India as -

- (a) abolition of child marriage
- (b) abolition of Casteism and untouchability

Beaux ~~all~~ most of the policies of British were oppressive so people felt that the steps taken for women's were interference of matter. and people had suspicion on the activities of christian missionaries. So people thought the British expand western culture and destroy their culture.

This answer is not of 250 words. Addition is reqd. in the body of ans. -Needs improvement and also there were Religious Superstition ~~to~~ ~~India~~ and Social illa in India. So the good Steps which were taken by british, were felt wrong by Indians.