Q For the conquest of India the decline of Mughals proved to be a major help to Britishers

→ In the history of India we know that the Britishers always played <sup>diplomatic</sup> ~~diplomatic~~ <sup>to armed</sup> ~~diplomatic~~ <sup>capabilities</sup> ~~diplomatic~~ role throughout the era. <sup>which</sup> ~~which~~ <sup>was</sup> ~~was~~ <sup>the</sup> ~~the <sup>major</sup> ~~major~~ <sup>weapon</sup> ~~weapon~~ of Britishers. Disintegration of the Mughals led to rise of different powers as well as British rule for over 200 <sup>years</sup> ~~years~~. And history proved beyond <sup>doubt</sup> ~~doubt~~ that every empire that <sup>evolved</sup> ~~evolved~~ and <sup>flourished</sup> ~~flourished~~ across <sup>centuries</sup> ~~centuries~~ created its own graveyard. - <sup>everything</sup> ~~everything~~ <sup>falls</sup> ~~falls~~~~

The policies of Aurangzeb was the major cause of decline of Mughals as well as the worthless rulers of Mughal emperor, Abdulla Khan and Hussain Ali were called as king makers in Indian history because of <sup>insignificant</sup> ~~insignificant~~ rulers. Whenever Britishers <sup>realise</sup> ~~realise that the opponent overpowered us they go for treaty. And after that they strengthened their power and came back. But the rulers thought that ~~there~~ <sup>no one</sup> ~~no one~~ can defeat them. They start fighting with another Indian provinces and weaken their power. <sup>No need</sup> ~~No need~~~~
